

Ray Jones

A History of the Personal Social Services in England

Feast, Famine and the Future

- Based on over 30 interviews, as well as key papers, reports and texts published over the past 50 years
- Contains 'insider' information and insights provided by interviews with 30 individuals, including some service users, directly involved in the past development and implementation of policy and practice
- Written in a clear and straightforward manner and references the author's own work experience, making it accessible, contextualising some of the more theoretical and analytical material
- Published in the year that marks the 50th anniversary of the advent of an integrated profession of social work in England and UK, a unified professional association for social workers, and the creation of loca

1st ed. 2020, VI, 494 p.

Printed book

Softcover

27,99 € | £24.99 | $34.99

[1]29,95 € (D) | 30,79 € (A) | CHF 33,00

eBook

21,39 € | £19.99 | $24.99

[2]21,39 € (D) | 21,39 € (A) | CHF 26,00

Available from your library or springer.com/shop

MyCopy [3]

Printed eBook for just

€ | $ 24.99

springer.com/mycopy

"This book presents a wealth of highly relevant detail which, far from obscuring them, serves to illuminate underlying trends and directions of travel. It is enlivened by quotations from the interviews the author conducted with people who played significant parts in key developments, and looks set to become the definitive history of the personal social services."

—Keith Bilton, co-founder Social Work History Network, UK

"Packed with meticulously researched detail and contemporary voices, this account by an author who has lived through the ups and downs of social services development makes for a highly readable story. Whether you dip in to check a detail, or read as an insightful historical document, you won't be disappointed." —June Thoburn CBE, Emeritus Professor of Social Work, University of East Anglia

"A truly unique, detailed and personal account of the development of the personal social services and significant milestones encountered from Seebohm, through the Thatcherite years to current day debates about privatisation. This book documents an important period in the history of social work and will continue to be of great value to both students of social work and social policy now and in years to come."

—Louise Brown, Professor of International Social Work and Innovation, University of Bath

—June Thoburn CBE, Emeritus Professor of Social Work, University of East Anglia

"This is a fascinating and instructive read. Ray's access to so many key people, and the blend of his analysis and their candid thoughts, paints a great picture of aspiration in public service whilst also detailing the destructive power of short-term thinking and political expediency." —Andrew Webb, Former President of the Association of Directors of Children's Services

This book provides a detailed narrative and analysis of the 50-year development of the personal social services in England, located throughout the changing ideological, political and relevant professional contexts of the period. Drawing on the experience and recollections of key players who were active during major moments, it constitutes a significant addition to the social work and social policy literature, synthesising important and often original evidence, and some provocative interpretations. The book speaks to crucial on-going issues and contentious current debates, such as the place of bureaucratic management structures in 'practices with people' generally, and social work specifically. It will be of interest to student and qualified social workers, social policy students and researchers, and policy makers, as well as those with a general interest in the history and trajectory of current issues facing social work and social care in England.

Order online at springer.com / or for the Americas call (toll free) 1-800-SPRINGER / or email us at: customerservice@springernature.com. / For outside the Americas call +49 (0) 6221-345-4301 / or email us at: customerservice@springernature.com.

The first € price and the £ and $ price are net prices, subject to local VAT. Prices indicated with [1] include VAT for books; the €(D) includes 7% for Germany, the €(A) includes 10% for Austria. Prices indicated with [2] include VAT for electronic products; 19% for Germany, 20% for Austria. All prices exclusive of carriage charges. Prices and other details are subject to change without notice. All errors and omissions excepted. [3] No discount for MyCopy.

